Please note the following requirements for a Bush School:

A Bush School is a school in a remote or rural area where there is little or no access to formal education. It is not the same as a mission school, which may be in urban or semi-urban areas. A Bush School must be in a remote area with very little infrastructure and must run on a cashless or barter system so that education is available to people with no money.

*Orphanages or mission programs in impoverished areas may also qualify as a "Bush School", depending on their financial situation. Each application will be carefully reviewed on a case-by-case basis.
